MEMORANDUM FOR HEADS OF EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENTS AND AGENCIES

FROM: JOSEPH R. WRIGHT, JR.
ACTING DIRECTOR
Joseph R. Wright
SUBJECT: Department of Justice Management and
Productivity Improvement Program

Attached is a memo that Ed Meese sent to his key managers in the Department of Justice which follows up on the President's Productivity Improvement Program as part of "Reform 88. I think it is particularly well done and demonstrates one Cabinet Officer's follow-up to this important program. Naturally, every head of an agency has to pursue these Presidential initiatives in his or her own style as appropriate to the agency and I hope that you personally will make this a priority in improving the management of your agency -- and as a result the Federal Government.

If OMB can give you any assistance in the follow-up to make productivity improvement a reality in the government -- please let me know. I would also appreciate receiving a copy of your internal correspondence in this program so I can share it with other Agency Heads.

MEMORANDUM TO: Heads of Department of Justice Components

FROM: EDWIN MEESE III gmn
Attorney General

SUBJECT: Department of Justice Management and
Productivity Improvement Program

During the past five years, the Department of Justice has been involved in a number of activities supporting the President's efforts to improve the management and productivity of the Federal Government. These activities have included participating in the President's Reform '88 Program, implementing recommendations of the Grace Commission, and conducting initiatives stemming from the Office of Management and Budget's Management Review.

As the President continues to stress the importance of improving Government efficiency and cost effectiveness, I believe it is an opportune time for the Department to focus its various management and productivity efforts into a single, coordinated Departmentwide development of a Department of Justice Management and Productivity Improvement Program. As part of this program, I am announcing seven broad policy goals that I want addressed in your planning, budgeting, and operational activities:

1. Prevent fraud, waste, and abuse in the Department of Justice.
2. Control the costs of administering Department of Justice programs and operations.
3. Strengthen the central direction, coordination, and oversight in the Department of Justice.
4. Improve productivity in the Department of Justice by 20% in selected functions by 1992.

5. Ensure that the Department's field structure is organized in a manner that enables Department components to carry out their programs effectively and efficiently.
6. Develop a comprehensive strategy for efficient implementation of automated data processing in the Department.
7. Promote and encourage Departmentwide commitment to excellence in management through active participation by managers and employees at all levels.

I have directed the Assistant Attorney General for Administration to forward to you information and guidance for developing a long-range Management and Productivity Improvement Plan. Beginning in January 1986 with the FY 1988 budget formulation process, you will be required to integrate management and productivity initiatives with your budget submissions.

I recognize that this program will change the manner in which the Department has been managed. Further, I know that implementation of the program will put some additional management burdens on you and your staffs. However, I believe that the end result, i.e., more efficient performance of the mission of the Department of Justice, is well worth these additional burdens.

Memorandum

Subject Management and Productivity Improvement Program: Information and Request for Action	Date 16 SEP 1985
To Heads of Department of Justice Components	From W. Lawrence Wallace W. Lawrence Wallace Assistant Attorney General for Administration

In his memorandum to you of September 16, 1985, the Attorney General announced a Department of Justice Management and Productivity Improvement Program (the Program) that will involve all Department components in planning and carrying out initiatives consistent with the President's Management Improvement Program (Reform '88) and the broad policy goals of the Attorney General. The Attorney General directed me to provide you with information and guidance for participating in the development of objectives and action strategies that will comprise a long-range plan for this new Program. General information about the Program and specific requests for action by you and your organization are contained herein.

INFORMATION

The establishment of the Program represents this agency's response to the President's call for a comprehensive and systematic approach to the identification and resolution of administrative and management problems within the Federal Government. The overall purpose of the Department's Program is to promote, achieve, and ensure enhanced management and administration in support of the Department's mission. The Program is intended to ensure sustained management and productivity improvements consistent with the Attorney General's policy goals. It is also designed to meet the demands of the Attorney General for:

- a systematic, centralized process for integrating Office of Management and Budget (OMB) and Department management and budget review requirements;
- mechanisms and timetables through which Department managers can report on their accomplishments and share ideas and experiences on management and productivity initiatives.

Since 1981, the Department has demonstrated substantial progress toward the President's long-range goals of improved efficiency and effectiveness. You and your managers are to be congratulated for the success achieved in streamlining and improving management systems in areas as varied as cash management, telecommunications, financial management, data processing applications, travel management, and internal controls. In achieving progress in these areas, we have collectively reduced the costs of doing business, with attendant improvements in the quality of services rendered.

To continue to build on this foundation will require modifying the Department's traditional management profile and accommodating common-sense requirements associated with sound, centralized planning and management. Nothing less is required than the integration of mechanisms and procedures by which our Department plans are developed, targets are set, resources are requested, and policy decisions are made. In short, we need to ensure better coordination and integration -- throughout the Department -- of our currently fragmented management and budget review and implementation processes.

The specific objectives and activities of the Department's Management and Productivity Improvement Program will be developed as part of a flexible and iterative Departmentwide planning process. The outcome of this process will be a 5-year plan that will include goals, objectives, and specific improvement initiatives, and will serve as the blueprint for the Department's Management and Productivity Improvement Program for the period FY 1987-FY 1991.

The first step in this process will be to develop by early October 1985, an interim plan which will provide a base for the Department's planning process for FY 1987 through FY 1991 (See Attachment A for further guidance). In addition to providing a foundation for the Department's long-range planning effort, the interim plan will be transmitted to the Office of Management and Budget as a companion document to our FY 1987 budget submission, and in compliance with a request made in an OMB memorandum dated July 31, 1985 (See Attachment B). The interim plan will consist of: a report on the Department's FY 1984-FY 1985 management and productivity accomplishments; a separate report on five old (FY 1985-FY 1986) and eight new (FY 1987) initiatives identified in OMB's July request; and other Department-generated FY 1986-FY 1987 initiatives which address the Department's management and productivity improvement goals and objectives.*

*/ Components should include only those initiatives which can be implemented within the resource levels currently approved by the Congress (for FY 1986) or the Department Resources Board (for FY 1987).

More importantly, as a followup to the interim plan, further development of the Department's five-year management and productivity improvement plan will occur prior to and during the Department's FY 1988 combined management and budget review process -- which begins with the Department's Call in January or February of 1986 and ends with the submission of the President's FY 1988 budget to Congress in January 1987.

REQUEST FOR ACTION

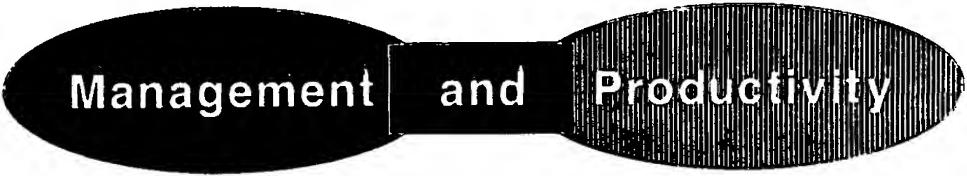

To assist in this effort, please identify a senior management official as your personal representative to work closely with me and my staff in further developing the Department's Program, beginning with the preparation of the interim plan. You should select this individual and notify me of his/her selection by September 18, 1985. On Friday, September 20, I will convene a meeting with these individuals ("management forum") with the following agenda: (1) to finalize the Department's interim plan submission which is due to OMB by early October, and (2) to develop policies and procedures in preparation for the Department's long-term planning process.

The meeting will be held in Conference Room B of the Main Building. It will start at 2:00 PM and should last no longer than one hour. Please direct your management and productivity designee to review the attached guidance materials and to begin developing ideas for initiatives to be incorporated into the plan. Guidance and formats for reporting accomplishments and initiatives are included, along with sample formats and a proposed planning framework.

If you have any questions or wish to discuss the Department's long-range planning process further, please do not hesitate to call me personally, or contact Robert Diegelman, Director of the Policy and Planning Office, on 633-1843. Thank you for your cooperation in this important planning effort.
